

I listen to both regular broadcast and satellite radio. Satellite offers much more variety and the ability to have reception when out of local broadcast areas. I pay for these services and would be against any restrictions on the services offered by satellite. It seems that everyone wants protection from competition instead of trying to be innovative in their services. It is a waste of tax payer money for the government to get involved regulating or restricting legal services.